Summary

I'm currently working as a web developer in Altairlabs affiliate network and developing my own commercial iOS application Fastriver, a new tool for e-commerce in Ukraine, which will allow merchants to keep records of their goods and orders, track their payment and delivery.

Previously, I was an entrepreneur and designed and produced several websites, King Apdo, Say Me, Pleasant Space and other small pages for customers. Developing projects and programming for the web and mobile devices have always been more than just a hobby for me. I was drawn to this industry by my brother, to whom I am very grateful for his support and help.
